So come along, pick up a club and see if you have the swing in you!

Discover the Capital's Secrets

Excursion to Faro will have the following highlights and visits to:

Dom Henrique Archaeological Museum (The Infante D. Henrique Archaeological Museum and Lapidary is located in the former Convent of Nossa Senhora da Assunção (Our Lady of Assumption). Abandoned after religious orders were banned in 1834, the convent even ended up being used as a cork factory throughout much of the 20th century. In 1960, conversion work began turning it into a Museum. The collection is mostly made up of local archaeological finds dating from the pre-historic through to the medieval with a major emphasis on the Roman. The Roman collection features pieces from the Milreu Ruins: the Ocean mosaic, two tombstones with inscriptions referring to Ossonoba and busts of emperors Agripina, Hadrian and Galien. There is also a sizeable collection of religious art including 17th and 18th century paintings, some tiling and the diverse range of decorative objects on display in the Ferreira de Almeida Room. The chapel which was part of the original convent retains its original structure. Now used as an auditorium, it is only open to the public when events are taking place.)

Faro Cathedral (The statues and carvings represent one of the most valuable 17th and 18th century art collections to be found in the Algarve. Of special artistic value: - The altarpiece and cardinal chair in the main chapel; - The Chapel of Santo Lenho (the Holy Cross) covered in gold leafing and containing an important set of relics as well as the founding bishops tombstone; - The 18th century tiling, particularly the figurative panels in the Chapel of Nossa Senhora do Ros rio (Our Lady of the Rosary) and the finishing's to the floor tiling in the main chapel and tiling on the lateral church walls; - The Chapel of Nossa Senhora dos Prazeres (Our Lady of Pleasure), a small baroque jewel with quality examples of gold leafing, inlays, tiles and painting.)

Connection of the old city to Ria Formosa

Rua Santo António (The main street of the shopping center in Faro is the most known and sought by all those visiting the city. A must for shopping, social meeting point and street entertainment. It is one of the busiest areas and as such, usually referred to as "Downtown." Here you can see the detail of Portuguese pavements, delight yourself in the purchase of regional sweets and visit existing stores.)

Lunch at Faz Gostos Restaurant (lunch is not included in the excursion)
